Proposal for a common website to connect and promote ABA services in Nevada

The proposed website would be a central hub for listings of all ABA providers operating in Nevada. Listings on the site would be created in one of two ways. First, the website developer, Monkey Logic, would use the previously published sources to create an initial list of providers. These listings could then be owned and verified by the providers, which would then allow for updating and ongoing management. Second, new providers would be able to create their own profile directly on the site.

The website would be a searchable database and the information in each provider profile would include information such as:
- Contact details
- Licensed staff
- Areas served
- Services, programs, and specialties
- Insurances accepted
- Waitlist information, such as might be available
- Other information the provider feels is relevant

Monkey Logic, a Nevada-based software development company, has offered to assist with this objective at no charge. Monkey Logic has offered to develop, design, host, and manage a website for the Commission which lists providers of applied behavior analysis therapy for individuals with autism spectrum disorders in the state of Nevada. Overall, this platform will operate similar to the way that Yelp operates for other business reviews and information.

The Workforce Development Subcommittee recommends to the Autism Commission that the Commission approve and support this concept and approve the offer of Monkey Logic.
