INTERPRETER MENTORING

ABOUT THE PROGRAM

The CAS interpreter mentoring program takes a holistic approach to mentoring while focusing on developing self-analysis skills. There is so much more to interpreting than just interpreting skills. The holistic approach allows for a broader understanding of the real-life complexities that impact the interpreting process and product. Developing self-analysis skills gives interpreters the flexibility and self-determination to guide their own professional learning needs for the rest of their career.

Participants should expect to spend 2 to 3 hours per week on mentoring activities including regular meetings with their mentor.

Time spent in the program will depend on the needs of each individual with a maximum of 2-years. Priority is given to interpreters who reside in underserved areas of the state and applications may be placed on the waitlist.

Participation in the program is free and available to interpreters who live in and/or primarily work as an interpreter in Nevada.
