Professional development must be related to studies in language, linguistics, culture, ethics, theory of interpreting, skills for interpreting, or another topic specific to the work of the interpreter.

Professional Development hours will only be accepted if they have been approved by a certifying body (e.g., Registry of Interpreter for the Deaf (RID), American Translators Association (ATA), Certification Commission for Healthcare Interpreters (CCHI), International Medical Interpreters Association (IMIA), etc.) or is college coursework taken for credit at an accredited institution.

Mentoring means activities facilitated by a mentor that are individually tailored to improve the skills and knowledge of an interpreter.

A mentor can be another interpreter who is registered or who meets the qualification requirements to register or anyone who is able to effectively provide mentoring, as defined above.

Mentoring is different from working with a team interpreter or debriefing after an assignment. Instead, mentoring is an ongoing learning relationship between a mentor and mentee where the mentor guides the mentee in setting specific goals and developing relevant deliberate practice activities. Mentoring is designed to help interpreters refine their skills, make ethical decisions, and gain confidence in their work. The main goal of the mentoring requirement is to help interpreters qualify for full registration within the five-year provisional status limit. Each mentee is responsible for determining whether mentoring activities meet the definition of mentoring for registration renewal requirements.
